

Quote of the day

I think this quote is trying to say that we need to be more independent as a race.

carter g woodson

Topic of the day

The topic of the day is black men building their community. I think Black men can start building their communities by becoming leaders. I think leaders are very important because they give people to look up to. Another very important factor in bettering very communities by bettering the schools and the education.

Black men building comminitie

