

QUOTE OF THE DAY

Ignorance and prejudice are the handmaidens of propaganda. Our mission, therefore, is to confront ignorance with knowledge, bigotry with tolerance, and isolation with the outstretched hand of generosity. Racism can, will, and must be defeated. I think this quote means that for you to overcome something so bad you would need to be better than the oppressor. For example for every violent crime white people do Black people come back with something that isn't violent but still is getting the point out.

TOPIC OF THE DAY

-Does power plus prejudice=Racism

I think every race can be racist, but when I think African Americans can be racist but it isn't as bad as someone like white people being racist.
