

QUOTE OF THE DAY

If we as a people release the greatness from which we came, we would less likely to disrespect ourselves. I think this goes back to us being kings and queens. What I think he was trying to say that instead of us putting each other down and doubting ourselves. A healthy self presence in the past we will have more self confidence

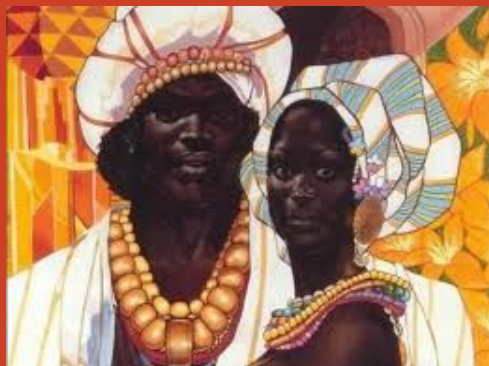

"LIBERATE THE MINDS OF MEN

african kings and queens

TOPIC OF THE DAY

Reading between the lies of HIS- story in search of the true Story

To me this mean that most of the things we learn in history isn't true because people (white people) are going to tell something other then the truth because they want to cover up what they did. I think there is some things that are true but most of it isn't, know that I know this im only to believe 50/50 of what people say about history.

Kings and queens